nomic order—in four weeks. If I fall there is no hope for Germany; if I fall all is lost."

Herr Stresemann is aware of the tremendous opposition that will be aroused when he oversteps the chancellor's customary powers. The threatened split within his own party and the continuation of attacks from other wings of the present coalition indicate that there are leaders who already have scented the forthcoming events.

Herr Stresemann, however, is determined to carry out his revolutionary program even though the party and country oppose him. He has expressed his determination to go ahead without regard or mercy for any one. He, however, does not think that the crisis will lead to a military movement.

Drafts Drastic Decrees.

Herr Stresemann plans to make public immediately a series of decrees aimed at restoring the national solvency. These decrees include a demand for contributions of foreign money from the industrialists. If this measure fails, Herr Stresemann will announce the confiscation of between a fourth and a third of all foreign money held in Germany.

He is also prepared to follow this with another order confiscating about one-fourth or one-third of all private property in Germany. This dictatorship set, paralleled in modern history only in Russia, is believed by Herr Stresemann to be the last resort for gathering the billions of marks in gold sent to restore Germany to health, enable reparations payments, and give Germany its old place as a great nation.

Rich Must Bear Burden.

According to the Taurius's informant, the conservative chancellor is discussing the measures with the Socialists president decided on the burden of his financial decisions must be borne by the working classes. President Ebert pointed out that the middle as well as the working classes will hardly be affected, as the complete deflation of the mark has practically canceled ownership among the workers, the small business men, and the professional and learned classes.

Finally, it is the chancellor's intention to impose the onerous of the new decree a la Moscou. For those who swindle the government both in giving up foreign currencies and in the income tax returns, Herr Stresemann will, if forced, announce a decree total confiscation of property.

The stock exchange this afternoon was stirred by a rumor that the death penalty for saboteurs and traitors was contemplated, but Herr Stresemann, who did not intend to go so far, however, is determined that severe punishment must be meted out.

Foreign diplomats accustomed to meeting Herr Stresemann before he assumed the chancellorship are amazed at his change in demeanor. In a few days he has become a fiery man of action, ready to go the limit at all costs for his policies.

Hitler Consults Berlin Leaders.

Adolph Hitler, the Bavarian Fascist leader, is in Berlin to meet out Herr Wulff, member of the reichstag, and other monarchist leaders regarding preparations for an attempt at a monarchistic revolution, according to the Socialist party news service.

A triumvirate, Hitler, the leader, is the Fascist chief's plan.

The Socialists say of Hitler:

"Chancellor Street" is going to try to force the German situation. The chancellor has been warned that his life is in danger on this Bavarian trip.

Rising in Silence.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Wild rioting was reported today in the Senftenberg coal district, near the Silesian border. Local police were unable to cope with the situation and reinforcements were summoned from neighboring towns.

Havestadt Agrees to Quill.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—[By the Associated Press.]—The report that Rudolf Havestadt, president of the Reichsbank, has resigned is entirely without foundation, it was semi-officially stated today.

Nevertheless, the return of Herr Havestadt is expected in the course of the next few days, an agreement to this effect having been reached between the reichsbank president and the government, according to information current today in reichstag circles.

Chancellor Stresemann has agreed to permit Herr Havestadt to make a public defense of his financial and currency policies before tendering his resignation.

FRANCE LOOKS OUT ONLY FOR SELF-BRITAIN

British Find Little Joy in Poincare's Note.

BY JOHN STEELE
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service]
PARIS, Aug. 22.—It would be easier for a lame camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for the British Ministers Baldwin and Foreign Minister Curzon to be able to reconcile the British point of view on the Ruhr to that of the French, according to Premier Poincare's reply to the British note. The reply was made public today.

Point by point M. Poincare corrects and refutes Lord Curzon's statements, standing pat on the original French position of claiming 25,000,000,000 gold marks ($6,200,000,000) to which the British had agreed of reconstructing the devastated regions and as much more as Great Britain and the United States demand for war debts.

M. Poincare proposes that the allies get together immediately to arrange for the payment by Germany of a sum covering the cost of rebuilding in the war zone and that they leave the fixation of the basis of the reparations to the allies as well as a settlement of the war debts to the future.

Must Be Paid Before She Pays. The French premier also warns the British that before officially abandoning any part of France's portion of the $2,000,000,000 gold marks ($80,000,000,000) C bonds Paris must reach an accord with Washington, as the United States, as a creditor, is rightfully interested in not seeing the French financial position weakened.

A note closes by saying:

"We do not suppose that England will reclaim its interallied debts before the payment of reparations. To pay, France must recover its forces, repair its damages, and put itself in a position to combat its German competitors."

This passage naturally applies to the state of Europe outside France.

Little Joy for British.

With these views, his polite sentiment of favor of maintaining the entente caused little joy in British official circles. This of course, is putting it all very bluntly, but it accurately represents the reaction of the French note in British circles.

It is pointed out, however, that the French propose to stand by to set the payment for the French debt out of its share of the 50,000,000,000 gold marks ($15,000,000,000), which was suggested last January by former Prime Minister Bonar Law as Germany's capacity to pay, is vitiated by the fact that French arithmetic takes no account of the cost of the armies of occupation, which must also come out of the effect of the French policy on the state of Europe outside France.

Thus, the British are definitely committed against the French note.

Lord Curzon will seek to stall for time in order to await the opinion of the imperial cabinet council, made up of the premiers of the British dominions which meets in October before starting further developments in the Anglo-French controversy.

Since M. Poincare called Mr. Baldwin's bluff, British circles are worried over the weakness of Baldwin's situation and that it is manifestly impossible for Great Britain to obtain anything by direct negotiations with Barington. Baldwin is Act Slowly.

It is also pointed out that Mr. Bonar Law's estimate of January was only an estimate and that it was based on Germany's condition at that time. If the estimate was correct then, it is likely to be excessive now, in view of the great drop in German money recently.

The foreign office translators hope to have a translation of the note ready for Prime Minister Baldwin as his return to London tonight. It will be given to those cabinet ministers in town tomorrow. No formal meeting has been fixed and none could be fixed until the beginning of next week. It is not expected, however, that Great Britain will move precipitately.

Time will be allowed for British opinion to crystallize and it is possible, if Mr. Baldwin finds any justification, he will meet M. Poincare. At the moment, there is little hope of this meeting, and it is felt that no good purpose could be served by the endless interchange of notes which have developed into a crossfire of accusations and arguments.

One ray of hope in the note is M. Poincare's statement that France has no intention of annexing the Ruhr.

The British feel that they have accomplished something in getting a declaration to this effect on paper.

RUHR WORKERS VOTE TO KEEP UP PASSIVE STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service]

DUSSELDORF, Aug. 22.—Hundreds of thousands of German workers in the occupied territory are still idling at their tasks because they are not receiving the wages they demand. A decision to continue this form of "passive resistance" against the employers was taken yesterday at Essen by 556 delegates from the workers' councils. All but fifty in attendance were communists.

The Krupp plant at Essen is not affected because, although all the employees report for duty and put in the usual number of hours, there is little for them to do and they could hardly do less. The Krupps have no more work, and only enough coal is being brought to the surface from the two mines on the premises to keep the power plant going.

The communist newspaper Freibheit asserts that the Krupps have reached an agreement with the French industrialist, Humbert Dewendal, but this is denied.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—Senator Stigles of South Dakota and Representative Theodore Burton of Ohio, who arrived here today from the international congress at Stockholm, had an unpleasant experience on a German train when monocled monarchists insulted them because they were "foreigners," and communists threatened them because they were well dressed. Mr. Burton said he found Germany more quiet than he expected, and the tiny winter-clad village where the famous couple took their lives has already become a shrine.

Gilmartin, noticing their mistake, ran toward them, shouting a warning. They jumped back in time, but Gilmartin was struck by the train and instantly killed. He practiced law in Chicago at 127 North Dearborn street.

GRAND JURY TO HEAR CHARGE OF SCHOOL CRUELTY

New Beatings at Parental Institution Bared.

By PHILIP KINSLEY.
At the close, yesterday of his examination of conditions at the parental school, Chief Justice M. L. McKinley received the evidence of assaults upon boys at the institution to be taken before the grand jury next Monday for criminal action against the accused officials of the school. He also learned that the Board of Education should act within twenty-four hours on several motions discussed.

Administrator of Schools Peter A. Meilia, who was a witness yesterday in Justice McKinley's court, said the new superintendent would be responsible for the school and that his son, Robert, the dismissed instructor, A. B. Davis, and Timothy Day and their wives, would be punished. Evidence presented, he said, showed that "drastic action" was necessary. Three or four other instructors, and possibly the supervisor, Mr. Timm, were, he said, to be informed of their positions. Instructor Major C. Tyrell and his wife were released yesterday, Mr. Mortenson Pilot Clair K. Vance brought more than 400 pounds of mail from eastern points to Crissy Field here tonight at 8:24 o'clock, thirty-four hours and twenty-three minutes after the first standard eastbound flight from San Francisco. The mail was twenty-eight pieces.

Not Glen Lewis, with the second day's mail, arrived at Crissy at 10:02 p. m. Pilot Yager picked up Lewis' cargo and left the field at 10:48 p. m. after taxiing about the field for an engine test. Yager had sixteen pouches of mail.

She Answers by Filing Divorce Suit.

Watson R. Owen's suggestion to his wife that "the other woman," mother of his unborn babe, should be admitted to their household—"all three of us to live together"—was answered yesterday by the wife, Mrs. Nellie Owen, when she filed suit for divorce in the Superior court.

Despite their thirteen years of marriage, Mrs. Owen complains in her bill, filed by Attorney Charles E. Erb-stein, that her husband, western manager for a New York manufacturer, has been unduly intimate with Miss Haasi Hoyer. Showing her a picture of Miss Hoyer, the wife alleged, Owen gave this bit of advice to her Superior court.

DEVER DECLARES TRACTION CLEAR OF ALL POLITICS

Only Financial and Legal Knots in Subway Plan.

Politics has been squeezed from the traction problem and submission of a comprehensive subway construction program to the voters awaits the solution of economical and legal difficulties, Mayor Dever declared yesterday. To hurdle these obstacles he has arranged a series of conferences with financiers, engineers, and cannot members to take place early in September.

"It has been said, and no doubt with a measure of truth, that in the past the traction question has been periodically revived for use in the spring campaign by astute politicians," said the mayor. "There is no political phase in the problem now and the man who toys with the question of rapid and comfortable transportation for Chicago's traveling public as a vote getting issue is unspeakably unfit for public office."

To Be Put Up to People.

"Much criticism will probably be directed at my administration before the expiration of my term, but it will never be truthfully charged that the traction question was used as a political stopgap nor that subway construction was delayed while politicians bickered. When legal and financial difficulties as well as engineering problems have been disposed of the situation will be offered to the people and with their approval actual digging will begin at once."

One of his close friends and frequent advisers declared several days ago that "the administration which built or began a subway in Chicago would be dead politically," the mayor was told. The opposition of neighborhood merchants and chambers of commerce would crystallize into an overwhelming defeat for the subway sponsors, the observer said.

His Only Interest.

"I am not worried by the thought that in digging a subway I might also dig myself into a hole," answered the mayor. "The only political interest I have in the city hall is to make certain that my organization does big things honestly and gets credit for them. I have no political ambitions for the future, and I sincerely hope that it may be my good fortune to settle the traction problem. I know my name would then be mentioned in the people's regard, but of the favor I might find with certain politicians."

The mayor refused to admit that yesterday's announcement of increased fares on Detroit's municipally owned surface lines might prove another body blow to his plan of municipalizing the local system.

Reason for the Raise.

"Increased operating costs necessitated a higher fare or a reduced service," said the mayor. "No judicial mandate can compel a private enterprise to give something for nothing, and the same holds true in municipal operation."

"I have always refused to take a foolish stand on the rate of fares under municipal operation, believing that the fares should produce revenue to meet operating costs. I feared that Detroit might attempt to popularize municipal operation by offering service below cost."

OMAHA'S WATER COMES THROUGH HOSE OVER RIVER

Half Pound Mud to a Gallon Is Reason.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 22.—[United News.]—The dread specter of an epidemic of typhoid fever was raised by health authorities here Wednesday as Omaha's water famine, caused by a break in the city water supply, continued.

Most of the little water Omaha had Wednesday came through a 3,000 foot hose stretched across a bridge from Council Bluffs. Thousands flocked for position at the Omaha end of the hose. Hundreds of others stood in line all night at springs waiting for a drink.

Half Pound Mud in Gallon.

Analysis of the city's water supply disclosed half a pound of mud to the gallon. One-half a gallon of Omaha water contains from two to three grains of suspended matter.

Packing houses, laundries, and other plant remain closed.

A resolution will be offered to the city council by City Commissioner Joseph Koutsky, asking a rigid investigation into the muddy condition of the water.

Blames Lack of Equipment.

A. E. Hunt, for forty years superintendent of the Omaha water works, gave present conditions on "failure of the water board to order new equipment."

United States Senator R. B. Howell, general manager of the Metropolitan Utilities district, which has been installing a new filtration plant, declared the condition was due to certain necessary pipe changes.

Reason for the Raise.

"Increased operating costs necessitated a higher fare or a reduced service," said the mayor. "No judicial mandate can compel a private enterprise to give something for nothing, and the same holds true in municipal operation."

"I have always refused to take a foolish stand on the rate of fares under municipal operation, believing that the fares should produce revenue to meet operating costs. I feared that Detroit might attempt to popularize municipal operation by offering service below cost."

FIVE TRANSFERS IN DIPLOMATIC
SERVICE OF U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Five transfers of secretaries in the diplomatic corps were today announced by Secretary Hughes. Paul Stearns is transferred from Paris to Constantinople, in place of Richard B. Southgate, ordered to the state department. R. Henry Norweb is being transferred from the department to the American embassy at Tokio, while F. Lamont Bell and George A. Gordon are to be transferred from the American embassy at Paris to the department.

Mrs. Stearns is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, perhaps the most intimate friends of the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

FINED FOR ANNOYING CHILDREN.

Harry Coiro, 1556 Lawrence street, was fined $25 and costs by a jury in Justice John P. Morris' court in Evanston yesterday on a charge of annoying children at the Children's Home and Aid society, 220 Ridge avenue.

COOLIDGE TO PURSUE POLICY OF HARDING ON ALIEN PROPERTY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—President Coolidge today directed Col. Thomas W. Miller, the alien property custodian, to continue the Harding policies regarding alien properties and funds seized during the war and still held.

"The alien property custodian," said Col. Miller following the conference at the White House, "is engaged in carrying out the provisions of the War Risk bill of March 4, 1922, which returns to former aliens all trusts valued at $10,000 and under."

"Under President Harding a policy of liquidation of the remaining alien property assets was approved in the event that such liquidation would take place advantageously to the government and trust involved. These will be sold at the lowest possible price of assets held by this government after the claims are allowed under the Winslow bill, which, under the treaty with Germany, is held as an offset until the claims of American citizens against Germany are adjudicated."

Mines Can Meet Demand.

To meet the anthracite shortage in the event of a strike about 1,000,000 tons of bituminous coal and coke a week would be required for a period of four months. This is about 10 percent of the possible production of bituminous coal.

Samuel D. Warinner, chairman of the operators' policy committee, remarked only that press comment and public reaction today all appeared to him to support the employers' attitude of refusing wage increases, but reflected satisfaction over diverse and imminent strikes.

"We are standing on that," he added. Mr. Warinner added the general public was likely to suffer little by a stoppage of anthracite production. There was a large supply of available substitutes.

Union Has $2,000,000.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 22.—The United Mine Workers of America have approximately $2,000,000 in their treasury at this time, John Gallagher, auditor of district No. 1, told the United Press today. There are approximately 370,000 miners organized in the anthracite fields, employing nearly 160,000 men, practically all of whom belong to the union.

HELD AS CHECK FINGER.

Thomas W. Steichen, 38 years old, 1835 West Clark street, was arrested yesterday on charges of forging checks on the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, 1201 Milwaukee avenue.

AWAIT WORD FROM U. S.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 22.—Officials of the mine workers and representatives of anthracite coal operators, whose break up of wage negotiations yesterday raised almost certain prospect of a stoppage of hard coal production Sept. 1, kept fruitless vigil in separate hotels here today. They were waiting, leaders said, without any idea of altering the positions which ended the joint conference, but as a matter of courtesy to the government, from some agency of which there might possibly be word.

ANNOURGES STATE PRIMARY FOR AL SMITH

This Anti-Volstead Man
Would Get Votes.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.
Organization of an Al Smith club to support the New York governor's candidacy for President and enter his name in the Democratic preferential primary in Illinois next spring was agreed to yesterday by Jeffersonian chieftains represented by Attorney Clarence S.

Resources spread through Democratic circles show that Mr. Darrow actually had no intention of circulating Al Smith petitions. "I haven't circulated any petitions," said Mr. Darrow, "but I have spoken to a number of Democrats saying that we ought to start an Al Smith campaign. It is my opinion he is the strongest candidate the Democrats could nominate."

Darrow Keeps His Counsel.
While George E. Brennan, the party leader, and his lieutenants have been more than willing to let Al Smith have his way, they are not particularly friendly to the New York governor and it is understood that there will be no move towards discouraging a move to present Smith's name in Illinois.

When Gov. Smith came west shortly after starting the New York dry law crusade, Mr. Brennan was the first man to see him in Chicago. Mr. Brennan also went several days with Gov. Smith at French Lick, Ind.

The organization, which has been酝酿ed as a reason for making Smith a candidate for only a minor issue, is further believed, Darrow's own views are extremely liberal.

Smith Would Be Popular.
"Smith would be popular," Mr. Darrow said, "not because he signed the Volstead act, but because he has made an excellent record." He has made an excellent record in all matters that come before him. He has been especially liberal in reference to pardoning war-time prisoners who were sent to the penitentiary on account of opposition to the war. He has been fair to labor and at the same time has run a good administration.

"No one can hope to be elected President on the Democratic ticket who believes in the Volstead act as it now stands. It is utterly opposed to Democracy and is not popular with the mass of Democrats."

The question has been raised that the fact he is a Catholic would prevent his election. I can see nothing in it, either as a matter of principle or policy. There are no religious grounds for electing a Catholic.

Others Who Would Vote for Him on That Account if the Election was Raised.

Brennan, the most violent anti-Saloon man in the United States, is in the south and is known to believe that Al Smith would not win the South. With that, he needs New York and he has already shown what he can do with New York and certainly his religious views have not hurt him in that state. Nobody could hurt him in New York.

The same things that make him popular in New York make him popular in New Jersey, Connecticut, and Massachusetts. With these states he would win. His religious views would hurt him in Ohio, and probably not in Indiana.

Religious Groups as a Factor.
The Granger states are important. I think the price of wheat and corn are more than the religious views of a candidate. Anyway, I think if the Americans people would go to church and declare a man should be President on account of his religious views, especially a man who has always shown breadth of view and tolerance on all questions."

Two Candidates in Town.
Two Republican gubernatorial candidates—Secretary of State Louis L. Herndon and John H. Harrison, Danville publisher—were here building up Chicago yesterday. These two are perhaps the most active in downtown affairs at the time. Both are holding strong for the united support of their leaders against Gov. Smith and from the start have figured among the most formidable contestants for the anti-Saloon slate. Harrison never has made a concession for the office and is not so well known among the rank and file of the voters, but is popular with party leaders. Secretary Herndon has some energetic workers in the mid-downtown and some of them are urging him to toss his hat.

ROPER FOOD.
"Pies and cakes possess the food values of bread," says Dr. Copeland.

Thus the energy-producing qualities of sugar and other healthful ingredients;

Save room for them and you'll gain through their food values as well as their delicious qualities."

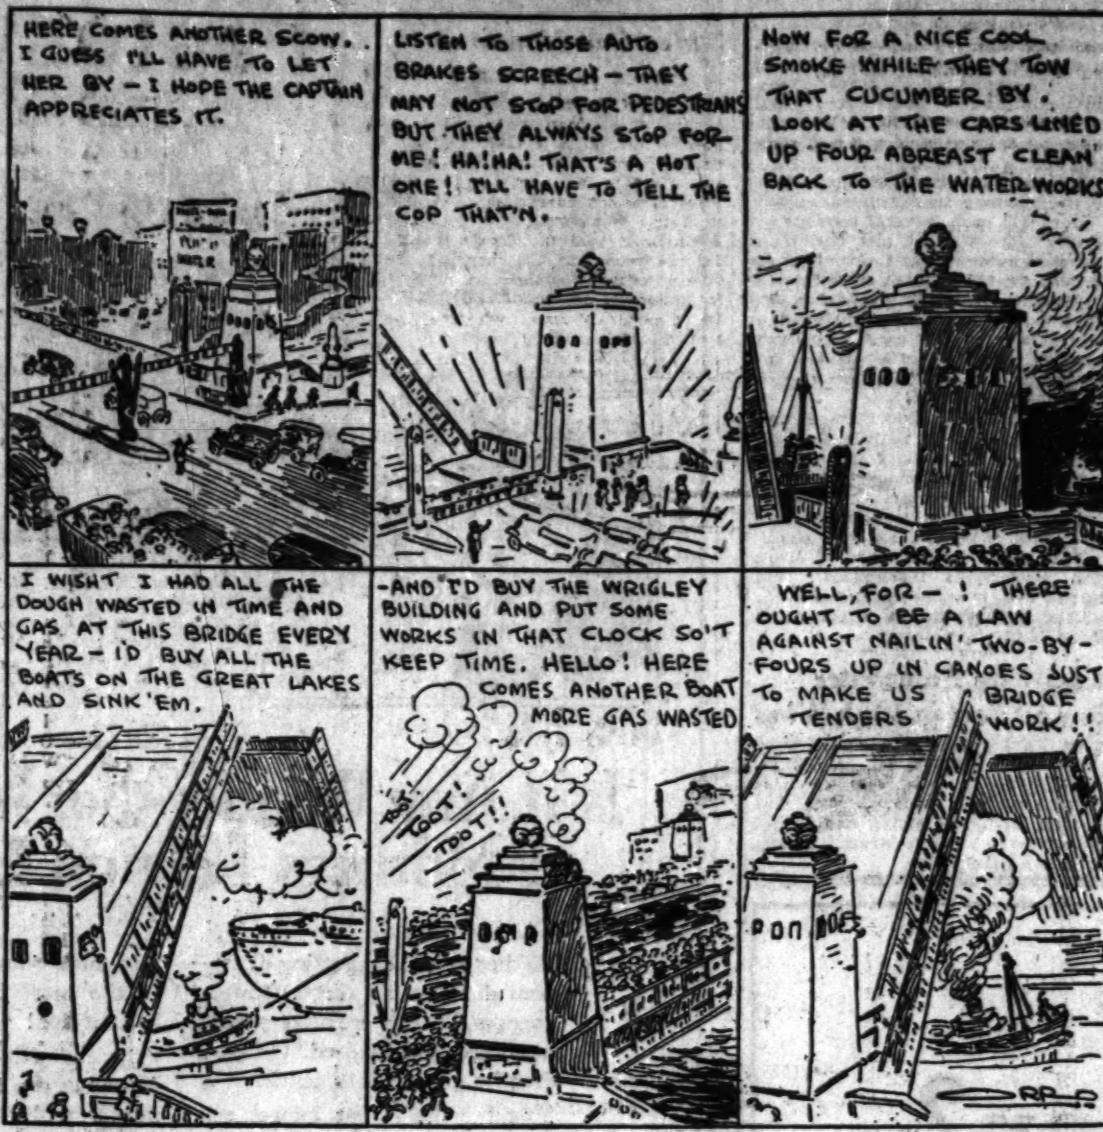

Pies and cakes, appropriate to the season, have been specialties at CHILDS.

Topped with vanilla ice cream, they are the end of a perfect meal.

CORONER ISSUE THREATENS TO SINK COALITION

Democrats Consider Putting Up a Candidate.

Democratic party leaders yesterday sought the advice of lawyers as to whether or not a coroner should be elected this November to serve the last year of the unexpired term to which Peter Hoffman, now sheriff, was elected. If their legal advisers reply in the affirmative, and the Democratic leaders believe they will, they will nominate a candidate for coroner at their county convention, already called for Oct. 2.

It may be an upset of the plans for the placing of a coalition judicial ticket in the field. Republican leaders take the position that Oscar Wolf, the incumbent, was elected by the county board to serve until the expiration of the Hoffman term in November, 1924. They do not propose to nominate any candidate for coroner.

Another Cloud Appears.

If the Democrats insist upon nominating a candidate for coroner, it is considered unlikely that they can come to an understanding with the Republicans over the composition of a judicial ticket. There will also be trouble between the parties over the selection of a successor for the late Daniel Ryan's unexpired term as member of the county board. Heretofore it has been assumed that in event of a coalition judicial ticket being put up, the Democrats would be allowed to name Ryan's successor. It is regarded as certain that if the Democrats nominate a candidate for coroner the Republicans will retaliate by naming a candidate for county commissioner, and

BOND SALESMAN DROWNED TRYING TO SAVE WOMAN

Myron Pike, 26 years old, an employee of the bond department of the Harris Trust company, residing at 1725 Jenks street, Evanston, was drowned near the Foster street pier in the north shore city yesterday while attempting to aid in the rescue of Mrs. Chester Parker, 2125 Jenks street. Pike and J. B. McCall, brothers, when they noticed Mrs. Parker being swept by the undertow toward the pier. All three made for the woman in distress and the McCall brothers, when they noticed was quickly revived.

Pike's disappearance was not noticed until after the rescue. His body was recovered three hours later. Pike recently was graduated from Wabash college.

JUDGE REFUSES TO ORDER ARREST OF "CHICK" EVANS

Indictment Lacking in Fraud Charged.

The Charles F. McKinley of the Illinois court yesterday refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Charles Evans Jr., long prominent in the underworld on the charge of practicing gambling.

The request for a warrant was made by Charles J. Moore, a La Salle grain broker who exhibited a grain bill which on presentation to a Rogers Park bank, on which it was drawn, proved worthless and was therefore marked "not sufficient funds."

A new complaint, made on Aug. 16, charged that Evans, who off the goit, was a bond salesman for Hoag and Allen & Co. had given him the sum of $10,000 in bushel grain in which he was handling for

After consideration of the representations of both sides, Judge McKinley ruled down the decision yesterday morning refusing to order the gold standard's arrest.

Defense Lawyer.

The defense took this action over strenuous objection on the part of Moore's attorney, Mrs. Bell Sullivan. Heptner, who was formerly an assistant state's attorney attached to the Juvenile Court, Judge McKinley declared in his decision that an "attempt to defraud" was essential to a criminal prosecution and that no such intent could be found in Evans' actions. The fact that Evans' check proved worthless was not denied, nor was it denied that he still had the Moore money.

Opposed to the court's view of the situation was in substance the contention made by Evans' attorney, Charles F. Rathbun. Mrs. Heptner had used her argument to the court on a several version of the law as contained in the Illinois statutes.

The city chapter 33, section 164, of Califf's statutes. "The making, drawing, uttering or delivering of such check, draft, or order, or otherwise shall be prima facie evidence of intent to defraud," was the clause in the statute which Mrs. Heptner stressed. She argued that the statute, if adhered to, would cause Evans' check on its face sufficient evidence for criminal prosecution and concluded her plea by producing the check itself.

Says "No Intent to Defraud."

Judge McKinley, however, declared the complainant failed to show that Evans intended to defraud Moore when he gave him the check in question. He also rejected his view of the case by claiming that Evans had shown he had a credit of $10,000 with Moore, that the check was only in the nature of establishing a further credit, and that therefore Evans did not receive a "valuable thing" as stated in the statute.

Evans' explanation of the charge was to declare that it was only a misunderstanding "about an agreement" in a business transaction.

More, Evans asserted, had not held the check but had attempted to cash it immediately, and on receiving it had paid out Evans' grain at a loss, leaving Evans indebted to Moore to the extent of $3,500, not yet paid.

HANDS OF DEATH

TWO INTOXICATED MOTORISTS SENT TO BRIDEWELL

Child Run Down by Auto
Dies of Injuries.

The clock indicates the number of deaths caused by automobiles, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

HIS PROTESTS FAIL TO SAVE WIFE FROM FINE

J. K. Russell of 2057 Kenilworth avenue was so put out when his wife, returning from the lake bathing attire, was arrested last Monday by a north shore park policeman for failing to stop her automobile at Ashland boulevard while driving along Lunt avenue, that he wrote a letter to Robert J. Mason of the north shore park commission. He included copies of state which he said had sent to Gov. Smith and Mayor Dyer.

Policeman George Johnson said she had "missed" him when he commanded her not to stop at the boulevard, and he took her to the station. Mr. Russell in his letter said there were "babies in the machine" at the time. Johnson said there were none. Russell said Johnson was rude and was hiding in an alley at the time and didn't see his wife stop at the boulevard. Johnson said he wasn't riding. Commissioner Mason said Johnson was one of the "most courteous policemen on our force."

When all the evidence was in Judge Henry M. Walker yesterday imposed a fine of $5 and costs upon Mrs. Russell.

Alabama Senate Tables Anti-Evolution Measure

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 22.—By a vote of 22 to 12 the resolution to prohibit teaching of evolution was indefinitely postponed in the senate.

Two motorists, found guilty of driving their automobiles while in an intoxicated condition, were sentenced to the House of Correction by Judge Henry M. Walker in the Speeders' court yesterday, there to "ponder whether both men and automobiles mix."

Judge Sigel, 116 South Robey street, was sentenced to ten days' imprisonment and fined $50 and costs. His attorney argued that Sigel had been only a few glasses beyond what was on his way home when he was arrested. Police testified his automobile was coming from one side of the street to the other and a city physician said he was in the first stage of intoxication.

Joseph J. Zeuke, 119 East Superior street, was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell and fined $50. A motion for a new trial was set by Judge Walker for hearing Aug. 23.

Another child's life was added to the toll of speed yesterday, when injuries sustained on a road caused the death of Charles Smitsow, 7 years old, 3021 Polk street. He was struck by an automobile driven by Louis Spinckowski, 1719 Humboldt boulevard. Spinckowski will face a coroner's jury today. There were 400 automobile deaths in Cook county since Jan. 1, now stands at 423.

Won't Continue Inquest.

Coroner Wolff yesterday denied the request of Attorney Harry A. Kahn to continue the inquest into the death of C. C. Hudson, Harvey, Ill., farmer. Mr. Kahn, representing Joseph F. Kyle, wealthy realtor, whose automobile struck the one in which Hudson was riding, said that several of the witnesses were out of town and that moves had been made to effect a speedy settlement with Hudson's relatives.

"The settlement means nothing to me," declared Coroner Wolff. "And who got the witnesses out of town, I'd like to know? My duty requires that that inquest be held today, when all available witnesses will be questioned. If some are missing, we will continue the case until they can be brought in."

Coroner's Letter Made Public.

Coincidentally, a letter from the coroner was made public by Hugo Meyer, manager of the Illinois Automobile Club, in which the coroner declared that "the speed mania can be checked by the ceaseless cooperation of officers of the law and the motorist themselves. The whole recklessness driving problem lies in the difficulty with which witnesses to fatal accidents are brought to testify at inquests."

"Citizens shrink from publicity, often because of inconvenience themselves. Judges and juries are compelled to let some escape whose guilt seems certain, for lack of testimony to convict."

Albert G. Gilmore, 35 years old, 1859 West Adams street, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Herman Muller, 73, 5824 Parkside avenue. Gilmore's Lazarus struck Muller as the latter crossed Michigan avenue at East 11th street.

The killings occurred at the farm home of the Rectors, ten miles east of here. The aged man is believed to have brooded over family troubles.

Rector said he was in the barn this morning when he heard his wife screaming. Looking out, he saw her running pursued by her father. The old man raised his shotgun and fired at the woman, killing her instantly.

He then attacked Rector with a pitchfork, stabbing him in the face. The latter ran to the house and, seizing a rifle, sent a bullet through the old man's head.

FATHER KILLS HIS DAUGHTER, SLAIN BY HER HUSBAND

Benton Harbor, Mich., Aug. 22.—John Garrett, 74, early today shot and killed his daughter, Mrs. Henry Rector, and a moment later was slain by her husband after he had attacked the latter with a pitchfork.

The killings occurred at the farm home of the Rectors, ten miles east of here. The aged man is believed to have brooded over family troubles.

Rector said he was in the barn this morning when he heard his wife screaming. Looking out, he saw her running pursued by her father. The old man raised his shotgun and fired at the woman, killing her instantly.

THE FRENCH REPLY.

The press summaries of the French reply to Lord Curzon's note on reparations indicate that, in American parlance, M. Poincaré stands pat. Study of the whole document may disclose some possible exit to the existing impasse, but they are not to be found in what we have read of the reply. The exchange deliberate and elaborate as it has been, seems to leave the two governments where they were.

To begin with, the French refuse to treat with Germany at all until passive resistance is ended. Second, the proposal for which American opinion had the most sympathy, in fact, was the proposal of Secretary Hughes of December last—namely: to submit the question of Germany's capacity to pay to an impartial expert inquiry—is refused. The French position is that no such inquiry is necessary, and in lieu thereof the reply fixes the minimum French demand at 26,000,000,000 gold marks, about $6,180,000,000, plus such sum as France may be required to pay to Great Britain and the United States on her war loans.

As to these loans, the reply acknowledges them, but indicates they will not be paid until Germany has paid for the restoration of the devastated region.

On the vexed question of occupation, the French government offers to withdraw gradually as reparation payments are made. A moratorium on cash payments is not refused, but payments in kind must continue.

In short, no immediate relief of pressure on Germany is to be considered and any recasting of reparations terms is foreclosed.

Without offering opinion upon the justice or expediency of the French policy thus reassured, Americans must view the situation with disappointment and concern. The dangerous breach between French and British policy remains as wide as before, and the probability is that it will grow wider rather than narrower. Meanwhile, if our information concerning the political, economic, and social conditions in Germany is correct, that country is approaching a crisis the effects of which are not likely to be confined to Germany. Even if revolution is avoided, the alternative threatened is such deterioration of Germany's productive and consumptive capacities as will seriously affect European restoration and compel costly readjustment of our own economic conditions.

On the other hand, as we have lately noted, some well informed observers like Secretary Mellon report a gradual improvement of conditions in some European countries, and these may be set off against the heavy body of evidence of acute embarrassment and deterioration. The American habit is optimistic, but it is difficult to avoid discouragement over the course of events since the war ceased, and especially since the French and British policies have begun to diverge. About all we can find any satisfaction in is that we are not politically entangled in a problem which involves factors we could neither accept nor exclude.

COALITION ON THE JUDICIARY.

A member of the Chicago bar, Mr. Andrew Sherriff, urges the objection to coalition on the judicial election made some time ago by THE TRIBUNE. The objection is that it would be unfair to the voter from any choice. If the party leaders agree on a coalition ticket, the public would have to accept all the candidates selected, whether good, bad, or indifferent. The only justification for such an arrangement would be the choice by the leaders of entirely fit men, and from such information as is available, this is not in prospect. On the contrary, the coalition plan seems to cover an intention to put upon the bench a number of politicians who have little fitness for judicial service.

Mr. Sherriff suggests an alternative that the political leaders name a list of men from whom the bar by vote would select such as in its professional opinion are fit to be judges, and that a coalition support this approved list.

We doubt politics will accept such a plan, and can see only one practical way out of the threatened purely political coalition scheme. That is a nomination of a full ticket in both parties, with a bar primary to give the lay voter guidance to the better men. Of course, if the leaders would combine on a high grade list of candidates, coalition would be acceptable, but there is reason to believe a political split on the judiciary is impending, and public opinion should be directed promptly to its discouragement or defeat.

RAVINIA PARK.

This is conceded to be Ravinia Park's finest season. The steady progress of artistic excellence maintained under Louis Eckstein year by year has given to the Chicago territory a peculiar and noble institution of music. There is nothing else like it in this or any other country, and that is freely admitted by visitors of discernment.

Ravinia is not expected to have a paying season at the box office. The attendance this year has indicated popular success, but there is no idea of profits in the management. The park is subsidized by men and women of Chicago and the north shore.

It is their contribution to the greater richness of life in this territory. As popular interest in the park grows and attendance increases, more money is spent on the cast. That has been Mr. Eckstein's policy. As a result summer opera at Ravinia does not ask for any critical concessions. It is to be judged by the highest standards. In all respects in the cast, in the orchestra, and in the presentation, it represents the brilliance of opera at its best.

We feel that an expression of appreciation is due the men and women who have guaranteed the park financially and who will continue to do so.

AGAIN AND AGAIN, SUBWAYS!

Arthur Evans' story of Chicago's muddling with subways will refresh the minds of people who know something about this astonishing situation and may open the minds of others to a realization of what it is. In street car transportation this is the most imposed upon large city in the world. The great modern cities would not dream of doing what Chicago is doing and Chicago will only dream of doing what they do.

The city has $35,000,000 for subway construction and a need for subways which every street car passenger feels every time a street car is used. The city has drawn plans and ordinances. It has had referendums. It has spent half million dollars on specifications and opinions. It has called the services of distinguished engineers. Twenty years of this and it has not put a spade in the ground.

The only thing which will do it any good in transportation is a system of rapid transit subways. Chicago allows itself to be distracted and deluded by proposals which would not do any good if they were adopted.

It does not matter what eventually is done with the surface and elevated lines. This city will have made no progress in adequate transportation until it has built subways. It is not necessary to consider the existing lines in constructing subways.

The city is free to act. It is not confronted with the old complications of Chicago traction.

It is a strange obsession which makes the I. M. O. advocates indifferent to the possession of a modern transportation system and interested merely in the possession of one which is no longer good. Subways, which the city can build and own, will make the surface lines and elevated mere subsidiaries.

Why not do the possible thing, the important thing, the only important thing, the thing for which the city has the money and the power and the need?

WHAT'S NEXT IN THE COAL FIGHT?

The collapse of the Atlantic City party between anthracite operators and miners brings this country, and especially the Atlantic seaboard, face to face with a serious situation. Judging from the experience of somewhat similar situations in the past, the prospect seems as clear as it is depressing.

It bids fair to run into a strike, the consequent depletion of reserves of anthracite coal at a good price, and the eventual stirring of public opinion through fear of hardship to a point where authorities will intervene and bring about a settlement. If experience with strikes in which the public welfare has been directly involved is any criterion, such settlement may be expected to bring about both higher wages for the miners and higher prices for the consumers.

That seems logical. The miners say they cannot live and maintain their families on the present wage scale. The operators say they cannot continue to produce on a smaller margin of profit than the present. If both are telling the truth, there is an impasse which can be broken only by the granting of both higher wages and higher prices. To this end, the miners say they cannot wait.

MOST of them are a faint echo of B. L. T.: faint and growing fainter as he is no longer here to provide ideas for them, and they have willingly exhausted the possible permutations of his especial idiom, his gift for concise headlining, his high talents as a poet in both laughter and sentiment, and his beguiling trick of imparting the sense of flat to his verdicts.

AND, after all, there is no reason why a man should get out any save a perfect column per day. He may, and usually does, know nothing; but his mail tells him how. THE KING under the present editor owes its sparkle and dash no less than its sagacity and profundity to our taking the advice of the ladies and gentlemen who daily devote time to keeping us straight and safe. The more helpful aides sometimes begin with "You poor simple!" and sometimes with "Who in Hell told you that you could edit a column?" but we may allow for their exasperation, heed what they say, and, so, read them.

ONE may, stuck for a brief paragraph to fill, always make a subtle reference to another columnist: that catches the crowd. Only yesterday, for illustration, Mr. Preston said this in the Daily News:

Harvey Woodruff should make a place in his "Way-Back-Whens for Tantalus, who remembers 'The Barber of Seville' when he was a little shaver."

We puzzled over this for an hour or more, realizing that it was deep and recondite and what the Vanity Fair fellow calls sophisticated, and all that; and then, seeking aid, we had it explained that it was a play upon "barber" and "shaver." . . . Keith, you're simply killing!

KEEP ON CUTTING BUDGET, TO BONE, MADDEN WAR CRY

U. S. Will Pay Own Way, as Usual, He Says.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Government expenditures are to be cut to the bone, according to Representative Martin B. Madden of Mass., who predicted today that the Republican policy of keeping the government on the "substantial and creditable basis of paying its way from current revenues" would be pursued by the incoming congress.

"The indication from President Coolidge that he expects the various departments to eliminate $155,000,000 in the next session of Congress indicates to me that the budget within estimated revenues is a good one," Mr. Madden said.

"My recent trip to Europe, which gave me an opportunity to study closely economic and financial conditions in England, France, Belgium, and Germany, has served to accentuate my admiration for the course our government has taken toward a restoration of a normal state of government finance.

Working Miracles in Reduction.

According to Mr. Madden, domestic expenditures in the reduction of federal expenditures, decrease of national debt, reduction in taxation, and the elimination of wartime and quasi-war-time activities had been the cause of great satisfaction; but, viewed in connection with the condition of the countries abroad, they seem nothing short of miraculous.

This course has been the gradual evolution of the policy of the party in power. The Republican congress came into office in the house in 1919, followed by a Republican administration in full control of all branches of government in 1921, has followed a persistent and relentless program of reduction in government expenditures.

Save Fifteen Millions.

The expenditures of the government for the fiscal year 1919, which the fiscal year in which the budget was balanced, with the ordinary expenses of the government and existing public debt retirements, were approximately $18,500,000,000. Our ex-

Radiacs Plan Hot Race in Next Mexican Vote

Back Calles; Conservatives Want Huerta.

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—That Mexico is about to witness a very hot presidential campaign seems apparent from advice which has just reached Washington giving every indication that the ultimate issue will be quite different from any that has heretofore existed between contending parties below the Rio Grande, which changes complexion with every campaign.

The Mexican campaign, however, is not expected to interfere with recognition of the Obregon government by the Coolidge administration, which now appears a certainty.

Usually the issues, in the past, have been purely personal, revolving around the candidate rather than involving any economic or social problem.

Radiacs vs. Conservatives.

Now, however, the breach is widening between the Mexican masses, some favoring extreme radicalism, and others disposed to support a moderate and constructive policy. The two groups are also almost unanimously favoring General Francisco Elias Calles of Sonora, the present minister of interior affairs in the cabinet of President Obregon.

Gen. Calles is in favor of legislation of a very advanced, even radical, character and has indicated that he favors recognition of soviet Russia. He has also indicated that he is opposed to compliance with the present ideals of the American government with which recognition is so closely involved, and has indicated he would prefer to stand aloof from all so-called "capitalistic" governments unless the latter extended recognition on Mexico's terms.

It is reported that Gen. Calles went to Moscow just prior to the arrival of the American commissioners and afterward established himself on a ranch in the state of Tamaulipas, not far from Monterrey, owned by his son, from which he has been lately directing his presidential campaign.

Gen. Calles Resigns.

Some weeks ago, it is stated, Gen.

Obregon caused an intimation to be conveyed to Gen. Calles that the time had come for him either to announce his candidacy and resign or return to Mexico City to resume his duties. Gen. Calles thereupon sent his resignation to the President, who, it is understood, will allow it to become effective Oct. 1.

Obregon Is Impartial.

All reports seem to indicate that Obregon is following an impartial course, which many interpret as an endorsement of Adolfo de la Huerta, Minister of Finance, to enter the presidential race. Should this be true, it is expected to go a long way toward encouraging all parties opposed to Calles to unite in favor of De la Huerta and thereby insure the election of a conservative against Calles.

NEGOTIATE GAS UNION'S DEMAND ON THE MORROW

Negotiations on the wage increase demands of the gas workers' union, which will range from 15 to 20 per cent, will begin tomorrow on the part of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Patrick Gallagher, business agent of the gas workers' organization, announced last night.

Along with the demands of the gas workers' union, which was negotiated several years ago by "Big Tim" Murphy, wage increases requested by the engineers of the gas plants will also be considered.

Prior to a recent edict of the American Federation of Labor, the engineers belonged to the gas workers' local. Under the federation's ruling they were transferred to local 629 of the International Union of Steam and Operating Engineers.

The wage rate of the engineers employed by the gas company ranges, according to John Gorey, business agent, from 70 cents to 73 cents an hour. An increase of 15 cents would mean an increase to $1 an hour, the uniform wage scale of the engineers' union. Contracts expire Sept. 1.

Chop Of Barnes Employee.

The decrease in taxes has lifted from the federal taxpayer a burden in excess of three-quarters of a billion dollars annually. The number of government employees has been gradually reduced until those eliminated during the year of 1922, by the retrenchment policy of the Republican party exceed 125,000.

"What has been done and what is proposed by the federal government should also be followed by states, counties and municipalities.

The course of the national government should be a healthy object lesson to the rest of the subdivisions. Only by their cooperation can the total aggregate expense be greatly curtailed. It won't do merely to discuss the problem."

Spend 2 evenings a week with BUSINESS EXECUTIVES

Spend 2 evenings a week studying the really significant problems of your business. No man will ever be a leader in business until he has mastered some field, either through years of experience or through a study of the organized experiences of others in that field.

Courses at the YMCA School of Commerce are practical—designed for all business executives. The instructors are business executives, each a specialist in his line, qualified through years of experience and study not only to teach the principles of business, but also to give out of his experience, something each evening of tangible value to you in your everyday work.

175 men close this education in 1922. Their average age was 31 years.

2 classes of college grade, each meeting one evening a week, on Tuesday or Thursday for seventeen weeks, of which 32 are offered this semester.

DOUBTED SCHOOL TRUSTEES QUIT, SAYS ATTORNEY

Denies Their Right to Re-tract Resignations.

Sadie Bay Adair, whose resignation as a member of the school board, given to former Mayor Thompson, and accepted by Mayor Dever, yesterday lost the first point in her legal battle to win back her seat.

Through Attorney Chester E. Cleve, Dr. Adair is seeking before Judge Francis S. Wilson to force State's Attorney Crowe to proceed against her successor, Miss Grace Temple, to force the latter to show by what right she holds her position.

City Lawyers Offer Argument.

Judge Wilson permitted attorneys for the city to argue in behalf of the state's attorney, and said that while he had not yet decided whether the city would be joined in the case, a decision in it by the state attorney would be permitted to present in defense of the city's defense of Mayor Dever's order.

Immediately after Judge Wilson's ruling, Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein, who, with Albert H. Vester, will represent the city, opened his argument in demurral to the Dr. Adair bill of complaint. He declared that Mr. Crowe had properly refused to proceed against Miss Temple, and that Dr. Adair was not entitled to a hearing on the matter.

Shows Thompson's Attitude.

Mayor Thompson requested the resignations of the entire school board, "said Mr. Hornstein. "Six resignations, including that of Dr. Adair, were presented to the mayor. The other members refused to resign. Mayor Thompson made that he would not accept any resignation, but that he hoped the other members would soon agree to resign."

The mayor did not definitely refuse the resignations, and Dr. Adair, in particular, was not withdrawn. They were held by the mayor for future action. Mayor Dever simply accepted them in the due administration of his office. The resignations were unconditional, and when the mayor accepted them, they were binding on Dr. Adair and the other members."

Mrs. Kathryn M. Haskell of Beverly Hills, sole beneficiary under the will of her husband, George S. Haskell, late head of the insurance firm of Haskell, Miller, Grossman & Co., will receive an estate valued at $200,000, according to Assistant Probate Judge Harry G. Keeler. Mrs. Haskell was given a $15,000 widow's award pending the settlement of the estate.

POLICE ON TRAIL OF ALMS SEEKER, BABY KIDNAPER?

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special.] More than 150 skilled detectives were unleased today on the first definite clue through which the police hope to locate 3 months old Lillian McKeon, who was kidnapped from her parents, the night of a store at noon Saturday.

In addition to this action on the part of Capt. William H. Funston, in charge of the search for the child, Capt. John E. Ayers, head of the bureau of missing persons, sent out a general search to the entire force, asking it to search for a poorly dressed woman of about 30 years with baby, who was carrying the description of Lillian a few hours after the kidnapping.

Information about the woman and the child was revealed to Capt. Ayers by a woman living in a tenement in the Battery section, who said she was convinced that the woman was carrying the missing Lillian when she called on her for dinner in her apartments Saturday afternoon.

She noticed that the infant in the woman's arms was macerated and was wrapped in a pink and white blanket such as was wrapped about the kidnapped child.

"I cannot reveal the name of our informant," Capt. Ayers explained, "because it might interfere with our plans." She told us that the child carried by the woman when she called on her in quest of alms appeared to be about 3 months old. She gave us an especially good description of this woman and we feel that with the cooperation of the public we will be able to find her and the child.

"We shall not be satisfied until we have found this woman and child and brought her before Mrs. McKeon," Capt. Ayers said. "In the general alarm issued this morning over kidnapping and detective in the five boroughs of the city, I asked to give the description of every man and woman encountered with instructions that in the event they came across the woman, they would immediately telephone police headquarters."

WILSON AND WIFE PAY FORMAL CALL AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 22.—[Special.]—Former President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson motored to the main entrance of the White House today and left their cards for President and Mrs. Coolidge. It was intended that first call of respect under the new White House rules.

They arrived in time to witness the laying of the cornerstone of the new wing of the historic mansion yesterday afternoon. This is the third time Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have been to the White House since the death of President Harding, as well as the second time they have left cards for the new President.

CATHOLICS FIGHT TO SAVE THEIR OREGON SCHOOLS

Portland, Ore., Aug. 22.—[United News.]—Catholic parochial schools in Oregon struck at the state's compulsory public school law in a suit to test its constitutionality filed in federal court here today. The Society of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary have petitioned for an injunction to prevent the law from going into effect on Sept. 1, 1924.

Under the new law all children between 8 and 16 must attend public schools.

The law would abolish all Catholic, military, and similar private elementary schools in Oregon.

This is drawn into the foreground through the last legislative effort after a bitter fight. Its proponents included the Ku Klux Klan, which is powerful in this state. The complaint holds that the law is unconstitutional because it means improper seizure of property, unauthorized restriction of the rights of parents, children, and teachers, and violates the contract of private schools created under the corporation law.

AUSSIE GIANTS OF COURT FLASH TO U.S. SEMI-FINALS

Brockton, Mass., Aug. 22.—[Associated Press]—The Australian Davis cup team of James O. Anderson and John B. Hawkes gave followers of tennis an exhibition of championship doubles play today in defeating the Pacific coast combination of William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin in a third round match of the national doubles tournament.

The galleries at the Longwood Cricket Club at Chestnut Hill saw the team which many expected would represent America in the challenge round against Australia next month go down to defeat by the score of 6-4, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4.

Johnston and Griffin twice formerly served national doubles champions.

Other Aussie Team Loses.

The match in which the other Australian team, composed of the spouses of the Davis cup challengers, Ian D. McNamee and R. E. Schlesinger, fought valiantly to advance to the fourth round but then fell before the cunning and skill of Manuel Alonso of Spain and his new partner, W. P. Johnson of Philadelphia. The scores were 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 7-6.

William T. Tilden II. and his new double mate, Brian L. C. Norton of South Africa, found the Harvard-Yale combination of W. W. Ingraham and Amel J. Knobell, who yesterday eliminated the Davis cup team of France, to be away of form and easily won through in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

The former Davis cup team of R. N. Williams III., Bryn Mawr, and William Washburn, New York, had difficulty in eliminating George P. Gardner Jr. and Harry C. Johnson, Boston, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Opposition for Aussies Today.

Tomorrow the Australians will meet the Williams Washburn team, while Amel and Johnson will play Tilden and Norton on Friday for the right to enter the final.

The elimination of Johnston and Griffin came as a surprise to many, as they were favored to win their fourth national title. "Little Bill," however, apparently was too keen, and a number of errors from his racket bespoke the fact that he was trying too hard. On the other hand, the crisp volleying of Griffin, which has carried him to victory in many a match, seemed lacking and Johnston was forced to yield two more of the games.

The Midlothian County club today will give the course its final grooming for the big Peter Pan tournament, which begins tomorrow with a field of approximately 150 fathers and sons competing. Play will start at 9 a.m. and the tournament will be over by noon. A special prize will be given to the team registering the lowest gross score for the double round.

One hundred and fifty golfers will compete tomorrow and Saturday in the Midlothian County Cup.

The former Davis cup team of R. N. Williams III., Bryn Mawr, and William Washburn, New York, had difficulty in eliminating George P. Gardner Jr. and Harry C. Johnson, Boston, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

Memo and Johnson Proceed.

The odd combination of McNamee and Schlesinger supplied another surprise by their strength, and incidentally proved Alonso and Johnston with much sterner opposition than they have met in their conquests of Robert and Howard Kinney of California and of Vincent Ricard and Dean Mathey yesterday.

Today's summaries follow:

SHE REGAINS HER SLIPPER JUST AS CINDERELLA DID

And It Was an Expensive Slipper, Too.

(Picture on back page.)

Cinderella, who won the title of princess because her foot fitted the tiny slipper found at the ball by the prince, to use the vernacular, had nothing on Mrs. Harry Hurwich of 637 Oak Park Avenue, Oak Park.

Mrs. Hurwich appeared yesterday as the claimant of the slipper picked up by Sgt. James Devine on Grand Avenue between 47th and 48th streets last Friday night.

"That Would Never Do."

It had gone over to see my husband's mother at 6017 St. Lawrence Avenue," Mrs. Hurwich told the sergeant. "But when I got there I found they were going to a funeral. Now I had on those slippers and tan stockings, and you know, sergeant, that would never do at a funeral."

"You go on," Doright said.

Well, I borrowed a pair of black slippers from my mother and from my cousin and threw my own in the back of the car. When I was taking my cousin home that night one of them must have fallen out of the car. I saw a picture of it in THE TRIBUNE this morning and I'm so glad, I was just afraid I'd never see that slipper again and—"

Then just as the police applied his famous test to Cinderella's jealous step-sister to Target, Devine began his examination. There might be no mistake in this matter.

"Describe the slipper, madam," he said.

"They are English grain slippers. I have them in Albany, N.Y."

"What size?"

"Where's the mate?"

"Oh, goodness! I forgot all about bringing it. Is that—"

"There's only one thing to do," said the sergeant, falling into the rôle of the cautious prince.

"Try it on and see if fits."

And just like Cinderella's, it did.

NAB REINSBURG, MISSING HEAD OF FIRE FIRM, HERE

Milton Reinsburg, former president of the World Tire corporation, which failed a year ago with an alleged shortage of more than $6,000,000, was arrested yesterday in a north side apartment where he had been living for several weeks under the name of Melvin Reynolds. He was charged with violation of the Illinois security law.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Edward H. Taylor, Reinsburg sold stock in his company knowing it had not qualified under the Illinois laws.

After the crash he fled to New York, it was said. He was recognized on the street by a former friend.

NINE STATES TO TALK OVER U. S. 'GAS' PRICE QUIZ

With gasoline prices still bobbing up and down all over the country yesterday, plans were being perfected by Attorney General Clifford L. Hilton of Minnesota for a thorough discussion of the situation next week at the convention of the National Association of Attorneys General in St. Paul. Ways and means for a national investigation will be discussed by the attorneys general of Arkansas, Indiana, Iowa, Louisiana, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, and Wyoming, it was announced.

The lowest retail price quoted in dispatches yesterday was 6 cents a gallon in Los Angeles. While other retailers in that city were charging 17 cents, Roy Geier, who is interested in gas refining and claims to have discovered a new process of making the fuel, asserted he was still making a small profit at 6 cents.

The largest local dealer handling Standard Oil products in Winchester, Va., knocked 7 cents off the price and sold at 20 cents a gallon, the figure established by a citizens' committee as a fair price.

As far as the price war in Texas was heralded in Dallas when the Magnolia Petroleum company, which has been selling gas at 11 cents, raised its rate to 16 cents to conform with the charge of other retailers.

"That Would Never Do."

It had gone over to see my husband's mother at 6017 St. Lawrence Avenue," Mrs. Hurwich told the sergeant. "But when I got there I found they were going to a funeral. Now I had on those slippers and tan stockings, and you know, sergeant, that would never do at a funeral."

"You go on," Doright said.

Well, I borrowed a pair of black slippers from my cousin and threw my own in the back of the car. When I was taking my cousin home that night one of them must have fallen out of the car. I saw a picture of it in THE TRIBUNE this morning and I'm so glad, I was just afraid I'd never see that slipper again and—"

Then just as the police applied his famous test to Cinderella's jealous step-sister to Target, Devine began his examination. There might be no mistake in this matter.

"Describe the slipper, madam," he said.

"They are English grain slippers. I have them in Albany, N.Y."

"What size?"

"Where's the mate?"

"Oh, goodness! I forgot all about bringing it. Is that—"

"There's only one thing to do," said the sergeant, falling into the rôle of the cautious prince.

"Try it on and see if fits."

And just like Cinderella's, it did.

FALL TO SHOW BLOW FROM COP KILLED WOMAN

Unable to determine whether a blow had caused the death of Mrs. Mary Hero of 1042 North Western avenue, who dropped dead in Chicago police station while talking to a desk sergeant, a coroner's jury returned a verdict yesterday that she died of cerebral hemorrhage resulting from chronic meningitis.

Mrs. Hero had been making a complaint about Policeman Thomas Freeman and his partner, Thomas McCaffery. According to the woman's story, Freeman had struck her on the jaw. At the inquest it developed that George Freeman, a brother of the policeman, had been involved in a fist fight in a dance hall a short distance from the station and had called on his brother to help him. The police were about to search John Conroy, 4609 West Belmont, when he arrived at the scene of Mrs. Hero, when another fight started.

According to Margaret Hero, her mother attempted to separate the men and was struck.

The Door of Desire

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Martin Thurnow had been engaged to Jacqueline Cray. They quarreled and Jacqueline Martin's cousin, Julian, second Viscount Montore. Julian calls on Martin and demands that he has just killed Thurrow who had been blackmailing him. Julian asks him for some moments to be alone at night. He is a hour to find Julian at the bottom of the elevator shaft in the Montore house. It is Lord Montore. Only Martin knows that the victim is not Lord Montore. He is told to tell Jacqueline that Julian is still living but she prevents him from doing so. Julian discovers that Thurrow was also known as Skiddy. Mrs. Skiddy, at one moment, does not know that her husband and Thurrow are the same person. Mrs. Skiddy's son comes to visit her.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

THE PASSPORTS.

Hector suddenly wanted two things very much; to have a few minutes alone with Leonie before she went off to look after her poor aunt, and to go to himself and have a long night. The immense excitement that had been abiding him for the last few days was merging in the irritation of fatigue. When he had talked of his destiny to Maudie Simpson, he had felt that he would never need to sleep again, in the accepted sense of the term. He would sleep an hour or two now and again, but at night, while others slept, he was busily planning the coup that would lift him out of the rut forever. Or, perhaps, if young Skiddy's good thing required a man of action, he would be packing.

The clock struck eleven.

"Well," said Mr. Kean, breaking a silence that he afterwards remembered as strange, even sinister, "I'd better look in tomorrow morning for our little chum, Mr. Skiddy. It's getting late. Shall I call in on my way to the office? Or will that be too early for you?"

Mr. Kean's son raised his dark eyes from the carpet.

"Look in, by all means. Good-night."

Mr. Kean was a little taken aback. Rather brusque. Recapturing his manner, he marched up to Lady Montore and held out his hand.

"Good-night, Lady Montore. Pleased to have met you."

"Thank you. Good-by."

Mr. Kean swung jauntily upon Leonie.

"Going to come along, too? You'll want to tell mother about Aunt Hilda, and all your things, I suppose."

Leonie did not move.

"You can explain to your mother about Aunt Hilda, and that I am going to her as soon as Lady Montore is ready to take me. And all that I said to her. Good-night, Hector, and au revoir!" She, too, was brusque.

Mr. Kean felt a sense of relief that she had changed her mind and was willing to go to her aunt; it hadn't looked well, that reluctance of hers. Not that he wanted her to go. It would have been a—well, a pleasure to have had her as ally during the next few days, while he was making the preparations for their marriage. Still, there was no need to be so offhand about everything.

He hadn't kissed her yet. Queer. Because he had kissed Maudie Simpson many times before they had become properly engaged.

"Going to see me out, Leonie?"

She did not answer; she just looked at him. He could not read the look in the blue. He fled, retreated to the door.

"Well, good-night, then. Good-night, Lady Montore. Good-night, Mr. Skiddy. Tomorrow morning, early, then. That'll be about half-past eight.

He did not answer; he just looked at him. He could not read the look in the blue. He fled, retreated to the door.

Sally's Busy Today
Picking Winners for the White City Frolic

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
Today I'm choosing the lucky hundred girls and boys for my big White City party, and it is a hard job. I'm telling you everybody's so anxious to go. Some, I know, will win. Just read this letter from Charles N.:

"Dear Sally Joy Brown: There just isn't anything as much fun as the amusement parks; it's excitement from start to finish, the thrilling rides, the spooky fun houses, and the good side shows! I tell you it's great! I've never been to White City. Miss Brown, so hope you will include me in your nice party."

C. N. writes: "I haven't had a chance to go to an amusement park this year, but I think it's the best. I've tried for the other parties. Miss Brown, and didn't win, but I'm not a quitter and haven't given up hope as yet. I don't often have an opportunity to go places, as mother works every day and I have small brothers and sisters to take care of. Words can't express how happy I would be if I should be among the winners."

And D. M. writes:

"The reason I like amusement parks is because every ride has some surprise to it, and you can spend a whole day enjoying every minute because there are so many different things to do. I was invited to Riverview once, but I've never been to White City, and I hear it's great. My mother could not afford to let me go, but I think it would be wonderful if I could go with your big party. I'd have a grand time, I know, and then I would have something to tell when I go back to school in September. I'll be eager to see the winning list on Sunday."

Movie winners! Our party is tomorrow.

We were the first couple to arrive at a house wedding, where there were to be thirty guests.

The small son of the house greeted us with these words: "Now every body's here but twenty of them."

My grandson who lives next door comes over every few days to borrow a quarter.

One day he came rushing over and asked breathlessly, "Grandma, how much do I owe you?"

I said carelessly, "O, I don't know exactly how much you do owe me. Why?"

"Well, grandma," he said, "I thought if I didn't owe you too much, I'd ask for another quarter."

For All Body Odors
Use Delicreme

Delicreme, the cream deodorant, is wonderfully effective in preventing all body odors, whether they are due to perspiration or to other causes. And at the same time it is absolutely harmless to tender skin, thin waists and underthings.

Numerous exacting tests made before Delicreme was allowed to be used generally, proved its effectiveness and its harmlessness; and the manner in which women are proof of its merit. A little bit of Delicreme placed on the finger tips and applied to the underarms, the face, and wherever else odors occur will vanish in no time and take with it all traces of unpleasant body odors.

Most drug and department stores sell the large Delicreme tube. Once you use Delicreme—once you see how wonderfully effective and harmless it is, you will never use another kind of deodorant. If your favorite dealer is not supplied, send the price, 50 cents, direct to the Marmola Company, 4012 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Latimer Goodrich of Lake View avenue and Mrs. Sam Woods are also regular users.

The New York Times.

New York, Aug. 22.—[Special].—The markets of all sorts displayed irregularity today, doubtless the result of the day's developments in the international situation as well as the developments in connection with the possibility of a strike. There were periods of strength not alone in stocks, but in commodities, too; but these were followed by irregularity which quickly wiped out the gains that had been established, and prices at the close of the day did not differ widely from those at the end of the previous day. The firm tone of the notes was due to the entire property of the company and on the part of the Southern Oklahoma Power company and subsidiaries subject to the prior lien of underlying bonds aggregating about $14,165,500 outstanding. The twenty-one apartment building at the southeast corner of Hyde Park boulevard and University avenue, $825,000, was sold by William J. Hoover to Jessie B. Lassers and Eda B. Walport for an indicated $95,000, subject to $5,000. Wolfe & Wolfe were brokers.

On position of the Steel and Tube Company of America, filed in the Circuit court, the Allard and Dye corporation has been transferred to the federal court. The suit seeks to set aside the terms of the sale of the Steel and Tube properties to the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. No date has been set for hearing.

Loyal O. Henzel has bought from Ernest A. Ricketts the seven stores, five flats, and a large warehouse at 515-53 West Madison, for a reported $75,000, subject to a $14,000 first mortgage. Harry Fireman was attorney for the seller. L. O. Henzel was broker.

Ritz Apartments Sold.

The Ritz apartments front building at 725-74 South State with seventy-five feet frontage was sold by Isaac Mills to Lawrence H. Powell for a reported $100,000, subject to $75,000, according to L. B. Perlman, attorney for the seller. Charles E. Schwartz represented the buyer.

Philip E. May and Webster H. Rapp, contractors, have sold the twenty-one-story building at 127 W. Madison, for a reported $125,000, subject to $125,000, to E. L. Miller & Son, a real estate firm.

Charles E. Schwartz represented the buyer.

Adaline Christen was buyer. Lino Broon, who were brokers and Murray Miller was attorney.

COOLIDGE FACES PUZZLING JOB IN ANTHRACITE ROW

BY SCRUTATOR.

The extent to which Americans have come to lean upon the extra constitutional powers of the President is seen in the anthracite situation. On all sides it is assumed that the matter is up to the President. Nobody at this stage takes the trouble to dispute it, least of all the President himself. But to appreciate the dilemma of his position it is well to remember, as most of us will do on second thought, that in a strictly legal sense the anthracite trouble is no more up to the President Coolidge than it is up to the writer of this paragraph, the man who put it into type or the news agent from whom you got it.

Legally the President would have a perfect right to go on strike and stay on it until the matter reached the stage of insurrection. If it did.

History is dealing one of its repeaters to President Coolidge. Anthracite was Roosevelt's first great exploit, and the decision to sustain him in it, too. He scored a great popular success and set a precedent that has kept presidents busy since. Without any intention to detract from his achievement, which was really great, President Coolidge probably has a harder task ahead. When Roosevelt stepped in public sympathy had pretty well crystallized behind John Mitchell and his men.

The organization is bad odor. Mr. Roosevelt's early version of "Gott mit uns!" had produced a wave of ridicule and a reaction against the arrogance thus disclosed. The Sherman act was a live issue then. It is said that a hint that one Grover Cleveland would shortly appear in court with a whole flock of bills in equity ex rel the well known United States of America, and that maybe a bunch of bills of indictment would follow fast, was enough to stop the fight.

Today there is no such unanimity of sentiment. Maybe the abundance of press agents is at fault. The writer hates to say so, having held membership in that order, but already the mafia are burgeoning with the propaganda of both sides. In the anthracite controversy, Justice and the law are equidistant. Justice is the only branch of the government that can be expected to do its duty. The coal battalions are the only ones that have enlisted in the coal battalions.

The net result of the crossfire of coal charges has been to make the folks on the side lines believe what both say about each other and that's enough.

Nobody has placed either of Pennsylvania in the present crisis, although anthracite lies wholly within that commonwealth, and Pennsylvania, not the federal government, has inherent power to go to the roots of such a situation. However, the constitution of the state probably hobbles its government effectively as to everything except preserving order, and to Pennsylvania's credit be it said she usually does that.

Talk of summoning congress in special session seems superfluous. What could congress do? Anthracite mining is not interstate commerce, and any legislation that congress apparently could enact would eventually be thrown out by the Supreme court. Of course no court would rule that coal miners were not a federal executive. They are, but coordinate branches of the government, but if the legislation is afterward nullified the thing would have to be done all over again.

Recent decisions of the Supreme court have left no doubt as to the fact that the law of the land is that the federal exercise of congressional control on the basis of the interstate commerce clause of the constitution. In the case of Hawes vs. the Thomas Colliery company decided Nov. 27, 1922, in which it was sought to invalidate the Pennsylvania tax on anthracite on the ground that it was a regulation of interstate commerce, Justice Mahanay said of the contention:

"It is that the products of a state that have or are destined to have a market in other states are subjects of interstate commerce, though they have not moved from the place of their production or preparation. . . . The reach and consequence of the contention repel its acceptance. . . . It would nationalize all industries."

The court held that even if the products were ready for shipment and market it made no difference. In the Kansas industrial court case the court held specifically that the business of a miner or a mine operator is not impressed with a "public interest." These decisions trail a long line of cases sharply differentiating manufacturing and production from commerce.

Kansas City Company Cuts Crude Oil Price in Half

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 22.—What trade interests here believe to be the first of a series of price reductions in midcontinent crude oil was announced by the Miller Petroleum company of Kansas City. This corporation has cut the price of 35 degree gravity oil from $2 a barrel to $1. This produces the curious situation of high grade oils selling at a lower price than the lowest grade oil of this field.

Action was attracted to this action more by the size of the reduction than because of the size of the company. It is pointed out that a company buys only about 1,000 barrels of crude oil daily out of the total 400,000 barrels production of the midcontinent territory.

HANKS PAY FOR OWN TRIALS
BERGDOLL PL

Germany Seizes Prisoners' Cas

BY THOMAS RYAN
Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service
BERGDOLL, Germany, Aug. 23.—The first man from outside the country to be accused of kidnapping to kidnap Grover C. Bergdolt was The Tribune correspondent, who interviewed them all.

When the examining magistrate at Wurzburg, this morning, found The Tribune man sitting in courtyard of the prison, he said, "I have been unshaven, as we are not allowed to keep razors permitted to have steel and forks and suspenders."

Suspicious at First.

Lieut. Griffis was interviewed. He said he had been sent to Wurzburg because he was the only one who had seen him since his arrival. He was immediately questioned, including magistrate, Albrecht Zill, who was present at all interviews, introduced Lieut. Griffis to Frau Herr Trautwein put Lieut. Griffis through examination.

Once the magistrate interrupted interview when he misundertood English conversation, declaring that German man had broken his word.

Then Lieut. Griffis saw that German wanted to eject The Tribune man because he became more friendly.

The American graves registration service in Paris knows all about Lieut. Griffis.

"In civil life I am a newspaper man. I studied at Columbia school of journalism, a speech of dedication at the cemetery at Romagne sous Montfaucon."

Wants Cigarettes and Paper.

When asked about his tree German jail Lieut. Griffis said, "I feel like a murderer in a cage, but we must submit to men law. It is pretty tough, not speak to any one. We were paper and cigarettes."

"Here is one," said the man.

"Can I get a lawyer?" Lieut. Griffis asked.

He was told yes, his friend got him one if they had the money.

When they were captured in France, the legal expenses of the state, according to him.

Price of One Cigarette.

They are permitted 3,000 for personal comfort— one cigarette a day. The man, the prosecutor to give evidence of 100,000 marks damage offered to deposit all four prisoners, but the court said the matter had passed by the authorities, who does not permit large amounts.

As the men have no money for prison fare—soup in the morning, soup at noon, and soup at night, twice a week and twice a week.

Engines Nelson, the man who kidnapped car, is also asked the magistrate to take him as possible, because

Mr. Nelson said, "I do what they were doing the first time I was ever in jail."

Retired from U.

Nelson said he had enlisted in 1917 but had been sent to the motor transport corps.

Demobilized in 1919 and a French girl and to Canada, Mont. She did not return home until she came back to Paris and got a job with an English woman working in American war stores.

Worked for the Graves Registration Service, where he met Lieut. Griffis. Griffis limped and was, precariously, still walking. He is an international man and his story is

He told today how a long time he had finally broken connection with his mother.

He spoke briefly.
